

EVENING BULLETIN.

MONDAY EVENING, JULY 27, 1857.

MEN DRESSMAKERS.—A correspondent of the New York Times, writing from Frankfurt, Germany, says: "Men mantua-makers and milliners in Germany are as common as men-tailors, and if a man-tailor is the ninth part of a man, we have wondered what part of a man must be a man milliner. One day, where we were sitting, a man came in with a dress basted ready to try on. Well, we confess we looked with all our eyes, wondering what would be done. But there was no hesitation—the lady took the robe to her room and put it on, returning in full dress sans sleeves. The man examined it to see where it needed altering, took it in on the shoulders, pinched up the biases, and laid the plaits, evidently used to his business, and evidently, as the lady said he was, an excellent dressmaker, and also that dresses made by men kept their place better and lasted longer than dresses made by women. How would it do to reverse the system and let women measure men for coats and pants?"

IMPORTANT MOVEMENTS IN THE GRAPE AND WINE CULTURE IN THE UNITED STATES.—The Commissioner of Patents has set apart a portion of the funds last appropriated by Congress for agricultural purposes, for obtaining cuttings of all the native wild grape vines of the United States, to be placed in the hands of practical cultivators, with a view of testing their adaptation to the soil and climate of the other sections of the Union, and determining their value for table use and for making wine. Major H. C. Williams, of Fairfax county, Virginia, has been chosen to select the cuttings of the vines of Arkansas and Texas, and of the neighboring Territories, and obtain certain information connected with their growth and locality, which are to be employed in carrying out said experiment.

A NEW WAY TO HATCH CHICKENS.—The Irish-burg (Vt.) Standard says that Dr. M. L. Scott, of Glover, had a hen lay a dozen or more of eggs on a pile of horse manure, under the barn, and some manure was thrown over them, when the heat of the pile acting upon the eggs hatched out eleven chickens. They are all alive and doing well.

The following application for a post-office has been received by the Post-Office Department from an obscure town in Tennessee, as we are assured by a Washington journal. We trust that the request was granted:

To Gov. Brown, Postmaster General:

DEAR SIR: We, a portion of your old constituents who delighted to honor you—we truly need a friend. Are you a friend? Are you? If there is a place on God's green earth that needs or deserves a post-office, it is this portion of the country. How long must it be so? In our list you have the names of some old pioneers (and their children) whose sires gloried in defending a soil that had no government save that of George the Third. Yes! before this fair fabric was built, some of our own fathers perished their lives for our sake. Our Government was formed. They and we have supported it by our hard-earned but cheerfully-given taxes ever since. The wheels roll on to 1812. The lion roars again. To whom did our leader say, "By the eternal, that will never die!" To our fathers and our brothers. They, on the bloody field, shoulder to shoulder, gave the grand quietus to his last growl. Later still we have the names of those who perished their own lives in Mexico. Nor is that all. We not only defend our country, help to fill the treasury, but we come up to the right end of the ballot-box and elect the Wright sort of men. We spurn flattery as we do the isms of the day. We know what we say when we ask you to imagine what our hopes were not long since, when an old, hard-fisted farmer, who had paid tax to his Government half a century, cheerfully stopped his horse and boy to send 12 miles to the office for his paper, to see who was Mr. Buchanan's Cabinet. Must that old man, "who has fought the good fight, kept the faith," given the lie to the state (N. Y.) charge, that "republicans are ungrateful?" We repeat, must such old men go down to their graves, asking their Government, not for "loaves and fishes," but the simple pittance of a one-horse weekly mail, that they may point out to their children the bright galaxy, and as star by star take their positions, hear him exclaim, I was once almost in despair, but we have at last got the only boon I ever asked of my country. Now, boys, read right, think right, live right, vote right, and you will die right. If you do not vote a solitary sentence, ask our talented young member from this district (who all the fates cannot keep out of Congress), and he will tell you. Alas, it is too true!

BULWER ON THE WEED AND WOMEN.—In his new work, now in course of publication, "What Will He Do With It?" Bulwer thus moralizes on "the weed" and women:

He who doth not smoke hath either known no great griefs, or refused himself the softest consolation next to that which comes from heaven. "What, softer than woman?" whispered the young reader. Young reader, woman teases as well as consoles. Woman makes half the sorrows which she boasts the privilege to soothe. Woman consoles us, it is true, while we are young and handsome; when we are old and ugly, woman snubs and scolds us. On the whole, then, woman in this scale, and weigh them both, and if thou give the preference to woman, all I can say is, the next time Juno ruffles thee, O Jupiter try the weed.

A SUCCESSFUL SURGICAL OPERATION.—Some time since a boy in this vicinity fell from a tree with an open penknife in his hand. He struck in such a manner as to force the blade through his ear and into his head. The blade broke off, leaving an inch and a quarter of its length buried out of sight in the substance of the head. The blade eventually passed into the brain. An application to several eminent surgeons in New York and elsewhere failed to bring relief. The case was at length brought to the attention of Dr. Middleton Goldsmith, of Charleston Medical College, who lately succeeded, by a delicate operation, in removing the blade. After the removal, the brain could be distinctly felt at the bottom of the cavity. The hearing, which had been impaired, was entirely restored, and the boy is now as good as new.—Middlebury (Vt.) Register.

Dr. Goldsmith is our distinguished fellow-citizen, the Professor of Surgery in the Kentucky School of Medicine. He spends his summers, teaching and practicing, among the Green Mountains.

TREATY WITH PERSIA.—A letter from Constantinople says:

The exchange of the ratifications of the Persia-United States Treaty took place some days ago, and Mr. Chas. Spencer will soon return to the United States with it. It is said that the Secretary of the Persian Mission here, Mirza Ahmed Khan, will be sent as Minister from the Shah to Washington. He is a fine gentleman, and will be much admired by the ladies of the United States. He wears a tall camel-skin Kubuk on his head, a splendid cashmere round his waist, and a ruby on his little finger, enough to break any delicate heart.

Mr. Richelberg gave his one thousandth concert in the larger hall of Mr. Wagner, in Berlin, recently. The proceeds of these one thousandth concerts amounted to the pretty sum of forty-seven thousand Prussian thalers (twenty-seven thousand dollars). As the admission was only two cents, these concerts, therefore, must have been visited by one million two hundred thousand persons. If we calculate that each person drank, at least, two mugs of beer, nearly ten thousand barrels of beer were consumed.

MONTREAL, July 14, 1857.

As if the extreme heat of the weather was not sufficient to try the nerves of the unfortunate inhabitants of our city, now literally baked under a July sun, which has run the thermometer up to nearly 100 in the shade, we have been still further heated and excited by an endeavor, on the part of some of our unruly "fellow-citizens," to emulate the example of the "Dead Rabbits," and disgrace the streets of Montreal by such scenes of rioting and lawlessness as lately disgraced the streets of New York. Last Sunday was the 12th of July, the anniversary of the battle of the Boyne; and the Orangemen, it seems, were determined at all risks to make some public display in honor of that victory. Accordingly, in the morning they assembled in their lodge-room, which occupies the fourth story of the Odd Fellows' Hall, in Great St. James street, to the number of thirty or more, armed to the teeth, and hung out an Orange banner, representing "King William of glorious memory" on horseback, or some such device.

The banner soon began to attract attention, and raise the indignation of the Irish Roman Catholics, who, toward 3 o'clock in the afternoon, assembled in large numbers in front of the building, and commenced firing brickbats and pistol shots at the obnoxious flag. The authorities, seeing every prospect of a desperate riot, unless some steps were taken to avert it, marched down a square of police men, and finally persuaded the Orange leader to take in the banner. This step was hailed by the mob below with a shout of triumph and derision, who then, the main cause of offense being removed, and probably not daring to attack the lodge, scattered through the neighborhood, and amused themselves by assaulting and beating or shooting any person whom they suspected of being an Orangeman or who chanced to be otherwise offensive to them. As the police never even pretended to interfere, and would have proved perfectly useless had they done so, a good many persons were dangerously beaten and wounded, some of them, it is feared, fatally.

On Monday night the Orangemen had a soiree or ball in the Odd Fellows' Hall, but, contrary to all expectations, the affair passed off without serious disturbance. This was owing to the fact that the hall was so situated as to be assailable only in front, was well defended, inside and out, by Orangemen and policemen, and the street before the door was kept clear by patrols of police. The mob assembled near the place, to the number of several thousand, but finding no chance of a successful riot there, turned their attention elsewhere, and commenced an attack on the St. Charles Saloon, in the next street, which was completely gutted. This saloon was kept by the Messrs. Carson, Orangemen, who had a narrow escape with their lives, as the mob attacked them without any warning, and poured a volley of pistol shots into the bar-room, where they were sitting with some friends and customers, before they were aware of their danger. Only one person, however, was injured, a boy of eight or ten years old, who received a slug in the arm.

It seems the mob, disappointed in their expectations of a victory over the Orangemen at their hall, were yet resolved to have some victims, and for this purpose of drawing them into their power, set fire to the saw-mill of Douglas Bros., in Griffithtown, a part of the city inhabited almost entirely by the worst class of Irishmen. The watchman in the mills perished in the flames, and it is suspected that he was first beaten or shot by the incendiaries. The fire companies on their arrival were prevented from working, and two of them, the Union and Queen, who are composed principally of Protestants, were attacked and driven from their engines. Several were shot and other severely injured by brickbats and bludgeons. The disturbance was finally quelled by the arrival of the water police, an efficient and well armed body of men.

"FIFTEEN YEARS IN HELL!"—As, with a stamp of the foot he dashed on the table the pen which had made him a bankrupt and a beggar, was the exclamation of a gentleman of sixty, who had been born and reared in luxury and wealth. This excellent man, in the course of business, had become involved, but was hoping and striving as honorable men do, to "work out of his embarrassments;" and for all that long time, he did work, and worked hard—allowed himself no indulgences, sacrificed his large property freely, whenever necessary to meet "engagement." But all would not do, and closed the strife by saying, "I am old and poor and have no home."

Not long ago, a gentleman who had failed in business, but had subsequently paid all his debts, and was now acting in a capacity which, while it was not pecuniary responsibility, was sufficient to enable him and his family to live comfortably, said, "I am one of the happiest men in New York, and no amount of money could induce me to repeat my former career. I could not do it. The efforts to keep up the name of our firm would now eat out my mind."

Another gentleman, still in active business, who lives in his own house, and who is adding to his fortune every year, said with the seriousness of a man who in a moment's retrospection had lived over the strife of a quarter of a century of business: "Could I have known the day I entered New York, a boy, the cares and anxieties which I have had to encounter, Manhattan Island and all that is upon it would not have presented the slightest inducement to undertake the task."

Within a month a gentleman, whose "house" in a single year cleared six hundred thousand dollars, has been sent to the lunatic asylum, and has since died, at an age but little beyond that at which men are fairly prepared to live to purpose.

Little does the careless and penniless light-hearted peasant, by of the splendid palace of Fifth Avenue, and Union Square and Fourteenth street, imagine what storms of passion and of fear, what wrecks of heart and hope, what withering of the sweet joys and anticipations of youth, what a drying up of the better and purer feelings of our nature these stately mansions have some-times cost their owners.

"What did that house cost?" is not an unrequited inquiry. "I am ashamed to tell you;" or "more than it is worth," is a very common response. The true answer in many instances is, "It has cost me my soul."

To maintain a good name at the bank, at the exchange, or on the "street," is an idolatry with many New Yorkers; and to that idol, rather than be sacrificed, men will offer heart, conscience, independence, everything. A good name, certainly, can never be overvalued; it is worth more than millions to the man in business; it is as much his duty as his interest to maintain it at any pecuniary cost, at any personal sacrifice, and it is highly creditable to our business community that so honorable a feeling generally prevails. But the error consists in men placing themselves in positions which present the strongest of all possible temptations to sacrifice independence and heart and conscience, in order to maintain their standing in the business world. Beyond all question, the universal error of the age in this country is, "hastening to be rich;" and this neglect brings it, in multitudes which we know of, the premature decay of body and mind together, and in the sweeping ruin carries with it down to death, truth, manliness, heart, conscience, all confirming the saying, "They that will be rich fall into temptation and a snare, and into many foolish and hurtful lusts, which drown men in destruction and perdition, while some men coveted after them; they have erred from the faith and pierced themselves through with many sorrows." And again, "He that hateth to be rich hath an evil eye, and considereth not that poverty shall come upon him."

Half's Journal of Health.

GETTING IN HAY ON SUNDAY.—A case of Sabbath breaking was tried at South Windsor last Sunday before Justice John Moore. It appeared that Mr. D. G. Sperry, proprietor of the hotel in that place, had hay cut, which had been wet in the storm previous to Sunday of last week. Sunday morning being clear, though there were indications of another storm which would have ruined the hay, it was properly put in the barn and saved. For doing this Mr. Sperry and his seven assistants were prosecuted by Mr. Grand Juror Clapp. Wm. W. Eaton, Esq., appeared for the defendant, and H. K. Welch, Esq., for the prosecution. The Justice dismissed the case as an unseasonable one—Mr. Sperry being justified in the evidence.

AN EXTRAORDINARY MARRIAGE CEREMONY.—A marriage ceremony, conducted in an original and singular manner, was consummated on Wednesday night in the Eastern District, Brooklyn, N. Y., in the following form and manner:

Marriage.—To all whom it may concern: know ye that I this day have become the espoused wife of John H. Stevens, resident No. 72 Second street, near corner of South Seventh, L. I., New York.

"LEVINA."

July 22, 1857.
Marriage.—To all whom it may concern: know ye that I have this day become the espoused husband of Levina—Levina is significant of daughter of the vineyard of Levi. Levina, in maidenhood name was Mary Rogers, daughter of Henry and Mary Rogers, formerly of the city, county, and State of New York—and further saith not, and excepting postscript.
JOHN H. STEVENS.
No. 72 Second st., near corner South Seventh, Williamsburgh, L. I., New York. July 22, 1857.
Ceremony of Marriage as between John H. Stevens and his Lady.

SABBATH, July 19, 1857.

To Levina.—To-day I bring you a tea-pot, to-morrow I will bring my bed, next day or day after that I bring you a marriage in a wedding ring. Homo sol passus; mistakes are hazardous, and if you understand me well, you may in due time give me a kiss as through this ring.

Levina, no need of clergy, as for us, young folks, for to understand.

On and after kiss, as through the ring, you are ever my "hay Lady."

In Womanhood, there is the Spirit of Obedience, and though Obedience has not been pledged to me, it breathes a more holy fragrance than that it had been a pledge.

Levina, then, as on and after kiss, as through the ring, you change your maiden name and cling dearly to the name which is within the ring.

Levina, on and after kiss, as through the ring, you may charge you billet-doux with all the news. I for one will give publicity in the morning news.

P. S.—To Marriage Notice.—A man sometimes goes up to Heaven without leave of clergy, and I am not secured of having the disease of the skin and other rascals growing out of neglect or imperfect cure. His long experience and success enable him to act with confidence. All those who may consult him, will be cured, and every vestige of the difficulties perfectly eradicated from their constitutions.

Strictures of old or recent date effectually cured in a few days by an operation which causes no pain. Where a stricture exists, general derangement of the whole constitution ensues, a consumptive of which will bring on a train of symptoms to be dreaded, and will undermine the constitution and cause premature old age.

SEMINAL WEAKNESS.—Particular attention will be given to this disease and all the consequences growing out of it, brought on, in many cases, by the destructive habits of immoderate youth and excessive indulgence of the passions, which undermine the constitution, rendering the subject unfit for either business or society, and causing premature old age.

Persons abroad, by writing and stating their cases, with a free enclosed (post-paid), can have the medicine sent to their address, with necessary directions for using the same.

The strictest secrecy observed in all cases. alldisjell
